THE MARINES WILL STAGE SHAM BATTLES OVER THIS DISTRICT

Skilled Bayonet Men to Make Whirlwind Tour of Fourth District in Fifth Loan Campaign.

The devil dogs are coming! A detachment of United States Marines from the overseas station at Quantico are going to tour this district for the Victory Loan. The routine is shortly to be announced.

These Marines, all super-experts in the bayonet work which won the Marines the title of "Devil-Dogs" at Chateau Thierry, will stage a realistic sham battle and bayonet exhibition at each stop on their tour.

The present plan is to have the Devil-Dogs stay an entire day in each town on their route so they may put on the sham battle in the morning and the bayonet exhibition in the afternoon.

According to their commander Lieutenant Edward B. Irving, his men have put so much snap into their work that a rest between stunts is desirable. Such an arrangement would also give local committees an opportunity to arrange for meetings at which the speakers who travel with the Marines would have a chance to present Victory Loan arguments.

The detachment includes twenty men, an officer and a bugler. Lieutenant Irving says his men will accommodate themselves to any special arrangements a local committee cares to make as regards the sham battle. They may defend an attack, building, or the public square, or stage their battle anywhere the local committee desires.

The bayonet exhibition these Marines will give is particularly striking since it shows the highly specialized training the men go through before being full-fledged Devil-Dogs. All the thrusts and parries the Marines used on the Germans at Chateau Thierry will be illustrated and explained at these exhibitions.

The Marines will also make it clear that the reason they are taught no defensive tactics is because their motto is "Get Your Man," and they always carry the fight to the enemy.

DRESS-UP WEEK PROVES PROFITABLE TO MERCHANTS

Several Local Clothing Dealers Report The Best Week Since Christmas—Good Crowds in the City Saturday.

Dress-Up Week which was celebrated in Maysville during the past week has proven to be quite a success in every respect according to the local merchants. While there have not been the great crowds of shoppers in the city during the week that there might have been, there has been a steady incoming and the clerks in all of the local shops have been kept busy.

All of the stores in the city have been very busy all week but the Gentlemen's clothing stores have probably done more business than any other class of merchants. The men and young men have been buying liberally all week but on Saturday the stores were especially crowded and some of the dealers report that on Saturday and even Friday their corps of salesmen were not able to handle the immense business.

One clothing merchant reports that during this week he enjoyed the best business he has had since Christmas week.

The women have been shopping as well as the men and all of the department stores have enjoyed a great business. The same styles will be on display every day in the local shops that have been shown during this week and all those who were unable to get here during Dress-Up week should come as soon as possible.

All our dresses direct from New York. Youthful, stylish models. HUNTS.

GARBAGE CART DOES WORK VERY WELL

Official Garbage Collector Lee Johnson is more than pleased with his new metal garbage cart and with the cart has been able to care for the garbage about the city in good order and on schedule time. He says he finds that he will be unable to keep on his schedule however hauling dry and yet garbage at the same time and will probably adopt a new system hauling wet garbage one day and dry garbage another.

DENHART ENTERS GOVERNOR'S RACE

COURT FIGHT SEEMS CERTAIN OVER ASSESSMENT

Chairman Scott of State Tax Commission, Issues "Deed" After Conference With Fayette Board Members—Mason May Join in the Fight.

Kentucky's new tax law, passed two years ago by special session of the legislature after years of agitation and month of tedious labor by the tax commission, must stand the tests of the highest court of the state if threats and counter-threats by the State Tax Commission and the Fayette County Board of Equalization are not withdrawn.

The State Tax Commission, through its chairman, James A. Scott, stated yesterday in Frankfort that the $7,000,000 increase in assessed valuation must be made in Fayette county; that if the county Board of Equalization fails or neglects to make the increased assessment, the commission will send a man here who can and will make the increased assessment.

After protesting to the State Commission yesterday at the increase demanded, and explaining that the desired increase can not be made in fairness, members of the county board stated that the next move in the controversy must come from Frankfort; that their assessment and equalization has been honest and fair; and that the increase demanded by the State Commission cannot be made by the board. Judge Bullock hinted that should the State Commission send a man here to raise the assessment, property holders and taxpayers of the county will file suits to restrain such increase attacking the legality of the mandatory increase, the commission's authority to demand such an increase, and the new tax law itself.

If the Fayette county case is taken into the court, it is hardly probable that it will stand alone. Protests against increase assessments that have been demanded by the State Commission have been made by a large number of counties throughout the state, and it is possible that many of these will join in a suit, filed to test the law. Immediately after the Fayette board had returned from Frankfort, representatives from Mason and Bourbon counties conferred with Judge Bullock, they declaring also their belief that the state commission had ordered increases in assessments that are not fair. The Bourbon county delegates appeared before the State Commission immediately after the Fayette board. Whether the visiting officials discussed the possibility of a suit with Judge Bullock was not announced.

Fayette county's Board of Equalization returned from Frankfort yesterday afternoon following a conference with the State Tax Commission with their protest unanswered. The board made the trip to Frankfort at the request of Chairman Scott, that it appear before them for a conference regarding the increase in assessment ordered by the Commission, which the board failed to make.

BRIDGES WILL NOT HOLD HEAVY TANKS

It is learned that it is the opinion of the County Engineer and members of the Fiscal Court that many of the smaller bridges in Mason county are not strong enough to hold up the heavy army tanks which proposed to tour Mason county the latter part of this month in the interest of the Victory Loan and it is therefore likely that the arrangements to have a company of tanks tour the county will have to be called off.

NOT SO MUCH TOBACCO YET UNSOLD

It is understood that there is not so much unsold tobacco in this district as was at first thought but there is enough to make a good big sale and the sale at the Home Warehouse next Wednesday will probably bring quite a bit of the weed from over quite a distance. The management of the Home has announced that buyers from all of the large dealers will be on the benches.

REVIVAL AT ABERDEEN IS PROVING QUITE SUCCESSFUL

MAKING PLANS FOR 1919 CHAUTAUQUA FOR MAYSVILLE

Chautauqua Committee of Chamber of Commerce Will Secure Talent Again From the Colt-Alber Bureau—Many Prominent Men on Program.

Mr. William G. Lavelle, of Cleveland, Ohio, representing the Colt-Alber Chautauqua Bureau, is in Maysville today in conference with Mr. A. L. Merz and his committee of local business men and at a meeting to be held at four o'clock this afternoon at the Chamber of Commerce arrangements will likely be completed for the 1919 Chautauqua which will again this year be held at Beechwood Park.

The Colt-Alber Bureau furnished the talent for last year's Chautauqua and never has Maysville had a Chautauqua that, taken as a whole, was better in every respect than was last year's meeting.

Mr. Lavelle is offering the committee a tentative program which, of course, is subject to come change. The people of Maysville will be very glad to know however, that Mr. Frank Bohn is one of the headline lecturers on this year's program. Dr. Bohn lectured in Maysville last year on "The Mind of Germany" and those who were fortunate enough to hear him remember that it was probably the best lecture of the entire course. Shortly after the Chautauqua season last year closed, Dr. Bohn sailed for Switzerland where he is now studying reconstruction in Germany and on this year's Chautauqua he will bring a reconstruction message. The announcement that Dr. Bohn will be on the program is enough to assure the committee that the Chautauqua will be a great success.

Besides Dr. Bohn, however, there is another headliner that will attract a great audience. This man is Tom Skellyhill, the Australian Soldier-Poet, who proved a hero on four of the war's greatest battle fronts and who will tell of the war as seen through a poet's eyes. The readers of the Literary Digest remember that only a few weeks ago that great national journal devoted two entire columns in appreciation of this wonderful man. Skellyhill's lecture in the Metropolitan Opera House in New York on October 9, 1918, alone sold twenty-three million, seven hundred and fifty thousand dollars worth of Liberty Bonds. Of Skellyhill, the late lamented Theodore Roosevelt said: "I would rather appear on the platform with Tom Skellyhill than with any other man I know." This great poet and fighter will draw hundreds to the Chautauqua.

The Colt-Alber Bureau also offers very attractive musical numbers for each day with the big musical number on the program, Fighting Americans. This company is composed of nine Doughboys who can make all sorts of music that will certainly please.

The date for the Chautauqua will probably be decided upon later. It has always been during the Fourth of July week and will probably be the same date for this year.

CINCINNATI FIREMEN QUIT THEIR JOBS THIS MORNING

Union Firemen in Queen City Keep Their Word and Walk Out—Home Guards Take Places.

Promptly at 7 a. m. Saturday union firemen quit their jobs in the Cincinnati Fire Department. How many left the engine houses will not be determined until officials of the new union check up names of 436 members whose signatures were attached to a blanket resignation submitted Friday. City officials were in communication with engine houses, checking up names of those out.

Within an hour after the firefighters went out, two false alarms of fire were sent to department headquarters. One was from Sixth street and Mt. Hope road and the other from Elsinore place and Reading road. Boys were suspected.

While a Home Guard was in front of Fire Station No. 2, Ninth street and Freeman avenue his rifle accidentally was discharged.

A woman later sent in a false still alarm of fire from Third and Park streets. Fire Co. 14, driven by Frank Kroll, chief mechanic, and manned by Home Guards, responded.

In round numbers it seemed apparent 400 men, possibly more, were out of the service.

The men are members of Cincinnati Local 48, International Association of Firefighters.

As they left the houses Home Guards, armed with rifles, entered to take their places.

The change was dramatic.

As the hour of 7 drew near crowds of curious persons gathered in front of all engine companies. On Sycamore street, above Seventh street, a crowd gathered as early as 6:30.

At one minute of 7 all drivers climbed on their apparatus. Fire bells were rung. Motors were started, and the huge machines lurched slightly forward. Ten feet they went and then halted. They then recoiled that distance. The motors stopped with a snort. Firemen descended, and, picking up their personal belongings, left the house.

Meeting of Sunday School Superintendents of City and County Schools Together With County Chairman Is Held.

Arrangements for the celebration of Go-to-Sunday-School-Day in Mason county are going forward rapidly just now and the first Sunday in May promises to be one of the biggest days in the history of all of the Sunday Schools of Mason county.

At a meeting held Saturday afternoon at the Chamber of Commerce of Sunday School Superintendents of country and city schools called by Mrs. J. C. Burwell, Mason county chairman, there was a very good attendance and interest was very high.

At this meeting the programs for the day as furnished by the State Sunday School Association were distributed and all of the Sunday School heads were enthusiastic over the prospects of a great big attendance. Never before has there been a better organization of Sunday School forces in Mason county. So far everything is very encouraging and these at the head of the movement are certain that after that Sunday every person in Kentucky will now that Maysville and Mason county are on the map and that the people here are Bible students.

Two gentlemen representing the Metropolitan 5 and 10 cent stores were in the city Friday seeking a location for one of their stores in this city. MAN CONVICTED OF BOOTLEGGING APPEALS

William Holmes Convicted on Bootlegging Charge in Police Court Yesterday Appeals Case to the Mason Circuit Court.

William Holmes, colored man, who was convicted of having liquors in his possession for the purpose of sale in Police Court yesterday and who was given a fine of $100 and a jail sentence of twenty days at hard labor in the Mason county jail, filed through his attorney, James M. Collins, an appeal in the Mason Circuit Court this afternoon.

This appeal stops the judgment of the Police Court from being carried out and Holmes gave bond with Mr. Paul Best as surety spending the rehearing of the case in the higher court.

Holmes does not deny bringing the liquor here with him from Covington but contends that it was for personal use and not for the purpose of sale. How such cases have been appealed from the Police Court to the higher court on these grounds and the progress of the case in Circuit Court will be watched with much interest by everyone in the city and county.

OUR POLICY

And likewise to earnestly and consistently oppose all things that are not for the good of the County as a whole.

HOW ABOUT YOUR TAXES

Uncle Sam's new revenue bill is now a law; it's provisions operative. Under them, whether you have discovered it yet or not, you are making your unrecoverable contribution to the cost of the world war. And you can't escape.

This is a good time to consider this question of taxes. How about them, anyway, Mr. American? Do you find them high enough? Are you paying enough upon the few little luxuries you can afford? Is the income tax cutting sufficiently into your earnings? Is there any little place where you feel that you should be paying more? And do you prefer paying taxes, directly or indirectly, to cashing Liberty Bond coupons?

Mr. American, you will have to do the one or the other. If the Victory-Liberty loan doesn't produce the expected amount there remains but one other way in which Uncle Sam may get it—taxation. And if this revenue bill and this Victory-Liberty loan fail to produce a fund sufficient to permit Uncle Sam to clean up the war expense balance, Congress will simply have to increase the taxes.

In other words, if you will not lend Uncle Sam your money he will take it away from you in a manner you cannot resent, for he must have the cash. He needs it to square accounts, to clean off the war slate, to finish the job, and it is altogether for you to say which way he shall get it.

All you lend him will be paid back with interest. What you pay in taxes is a total loss to you. The answer should be easy.

MAKING THE OCEAN FLIGHT SAFE

That airplanes as well as airships can make the distance of an ocean flight is well known. Making the flight itself safe is another matter; probably the lives of the men who man the first American plane to try it will be protected sufficiently by the arrangements of the navy department made public by Acting Secretary Roosevelt, says the New York World.

In May, when the naval experiment may be launched, no long storms are looked for. The swiftness of a modern airplane makes it possible so to time a trip that good weather may almost be guaranteed for its brief duration. Destroyers capable of dashing 35 miles an hour are to be strung at 200 miles intervals on the line of flight, and, barring accidents to the radio apparatus, a call for help would always bring it to a designated spot within four or five hours.

Little is known of the reported attempt of Lieutenant Fontan to fly from Senegambia to Penambuco, except that he seems to have been halted by engine trouble on the way to his starting point. But substantial rivalry to our naval plans is promised by the shipping of a Sopwith plane to Newfoundland by the British air service, especially to try the short course from St. Johns to Ireland.

While the war lasted the ocean flight appeared an extra-hazardous possibility of the far future. Four months after the armistice three attempts are planned by three friendly nations for the honor of the first crossing.

The MAN with a COUNTRY

of war might have been evaded. Corwin began to pick flaws in the President's diplomacy; he reflected cynically that the President was not of his political faith, and that he might be bringing on the war at the behest of powerful commercial interests that thirsted for enormous profits. Then from this fabric of suspicion he began to pluck strands—in the shape of rumored irregularities in administration affairs in Washington—that he wove into plausible beliefs.

There were several members of the President's cabinet that Corwin did not like—he had always thought them incompetent. If there was to be a war, why did not the President force the resignation of these men?

Within half an hour, meditating alone in his office, Corwin became a narrow partisan—convinced that his political party was able to conduct a war more efficiently than the one headed by the President. Feeding his partisanship with incidents that seemed to prove the soundness of his conviction, Corwin became, within an hour, a dissenter from all the principles enunciated by the President in his war message—and in his public utterances.

A hot rage seized Corwin; and he laughed, scornfully. War! The idea was monstrous. Why declare war on Germany? Why, indeed? Miller was right; Roberts was right. The President was making a terrible blunder. The jingo and war-provokers were agitating this thing, and they had won the President to their side. It wasn't a question of patriotism, for Germany had not threatened to invade America; and the surest and quickest way to convince the President and the world that the great body of the American people could not be fooled by such buncombe was to refuse to finance such a war.

When Molly King, Corwin's stenographer, came in a few minutes later her face was flushed, her eyes were bright and there was an air of suppressed excitement in her manner. She went immediately to her desk; but instantly wheeled in her chair and faced Corwin.

"Did you hear the news, Mr. Corwin? America will declare war on Germany!"

Corwin grinned cynically at her. "Bosh!" he said. "Why should America interfere?"

The girl gasped and stared at Corwin in amazement. Then, when she saw Corwin was in earnest, she raised her chin defiantly.

"Because America is America, Mr. Corwin," she returned, coldly. "If America did not go in, now! I should never be able to look another foreigner in the eyes!"

She flounced around in her chair and began to bang the keys of her typewriter with a viciousness that startled Corwin. The girl's sturdy patriotism was in striking contrast to his own feelings, and for a long time he sat, watching her, oppressed with a sensation of guilt—of something shameful and clandestine and unworthy.

CHAPTER III

CORWIN was astonished to discover that most of his friends were either opposed to war with Germany or were lukewarm toward it. So he gathered that it was not a popular war. His own feelings had not changed—except that his convictions had deepened. When the poison of distrust of the President and his official family had got into his veins it had changed him overnight.

It was easy to pick flaws in every public utterance of the President; the mistakes of the men appointed to responsible positions were so glaringly apparent that they aroused in Corwin a grim contempt for the entire war structure. Men were being called to Washington in huge numbers to take charge of various departments—newly created. It seemed to Corwin that these men were chosen, not because of their special fitness, but because they were influential in politics. Corwin foresaw many opportunities for graft, and he had no doubt that the entire war-organization would be honeycombed with it. So as the days died and he continued to nurse his distrust, he observed with sardonic satisfaction that inefficiency was to reign in Falltown. For one morning Gary Miller told him that the Central Liberty Loan Committee of the district had appointed Bernard Dillon chairman of the Falltown Committee.

Corwin flushed angrily. He and Dillon were not friendly. He knew of no good reason why Dillon should not have the appointment, and he could not have denied that Dillon was honest. But he disliked the man, and was convinced that there were more capable men in Falltown.

He saw Miller looking keenly at him—understandingly.

"Well," laughed Miller; "I suppose they could have done better. Not that I don't like Dillon. It's nothing personal, you understand; but he's a fellow that a man can't warm to." Miller's voice grew grave. "The loan is to be two billion. They can't raise it! Why, it's more money than the Government ever spent in two years. It didn't cost much more than that to finance the Civil War. And they talk of spending that amount within a few months!"

Miller was not the only resident of Falltown to express his convictions. During the days that followed the talk with the banker, Corwin hearkened much to the voice of discontent.

The fault-finder was omnipresent; his voice was raised in the office, the factory; in the groups that formed on the street corners; there was an undercurrent of dissatisfaction which created a savage joy in Corwin's heart. For he considered the dissatisfaction to be directed at the party in power—it was an expression of distrust, a protest against the huge blunder of waging war upon a foreign power which was thousands of miles distant. It wasn't necessary to go to war; it wasn't necessary to spend that vast amount of money; it was a heinous crime to send millions of men to death upon a foreign field merely to uphold an ideal.

"How much does the Kaiser pay you for shooting off your mouth?"

One night, standing at the fringe of a crowd that was listening attentively to a wildly-gesticulating man who stood on a wooden box, Corwin heard the principles of the Socialist Party expounded. Until now, Corwin had considered the Socialists rattle-brained radicals intent upon the dismemberment of the Government. But by the time the man had finished Corwin felt there was some virtue in the Socialist platform, after all.

He was astonished that he should admit it, but the man had created an impression upon him. The appeal of the orator had been made to the passions, to the elemental in man which is irritated by all authority. Wars were criminal, the orator said; the solution of the world-difficulty was the adoption of the doctrine of "the brotherhood of man." A draft was imminent, the orator said; and he advised all men to resist it—to the point of revolution, if necessary.

Also, the orator had something to say about bonds. They, too, were evil. There could be no war if the people refused to finance it. The rich men of the country were behind it all—the poor did not want war—they would not have it.

At this point in the orator's speech there came an interruption. A sinewy, strong-faced man who stood near Corwin raised his voice sneeringly: "Bah!" he yelled at the orator; "how much does the Kaiser pay you for shooting off your mouth?"

There was a laugh, some hisses, and some applause for the interrupter. Then suddenly, the crowd began to move. There were shouts, hoarse imprecations, blows.

In an instant turmoil reigned. The crowd became a huge blot animated by swinging arms, and articulate with curses and infuriated yells. Corwin saw the interrupter, a grim smile on his face, drive into the press, swinging his arms like flails. He saw men go down under the man's blows; and as Corwin ran for a position of safety he mentally remarked that the expression of the man's face was much like that which had been upon the face of his stenographer when she had told him: "Because America is America!" He divined that the fighting instinct in the stenographer was as strong as that which had driven the strong-faced man to grimly attack the friends of the orator.

However, this incident strengthened Corwin's conviction that the country did not want war. And when from his position of safety he saw policemen fighting their way into the crowd, dispersing it, and arresting some of the disturbers, he cynically remarked to a bystander that the incident proved that the workers of the world had no voice in the policies of their governments—liberty of speech was even denied them. And when, the next morning, Corwin heard that the offenders—the orator especially—had been accused of treason, he grinned sardoniously.

Suddenly, Corwin noted the preparations for the first Liberty Loan campaign. He heard rumors that the committee had examined into every man's resources, and that every citizen of Falltown was expected to buy bonds to the extent of his means. On the streets—in the shapes of placard and poster and handbill and sticker—appeared the slogan:

"Send Falltown over the top." Advertisements began to appear in the Observer—pointed paragraphs were there, appealing to the patriotism of Falltown's citizens. And on the morning when the loan campaign was launched, Corwin drove to his office in his closed car, dreading to be accosted by the workers that thronged the streets.

Corwin had got down early, and after he opened his desk he sat before it for a long time, thinking of the young man who had sneered at the speaker some nights before.

The young man's face had made a deep impression on him; he could see the fellow plainly—grinning his contempt of the orator and his friends. (To be continued)

MAY HAVE TO BE DEBATED

(New York World)

Mr. Bryan makes a suggestion in regard to the League of Nations which eventually may have to be debated. The covenant prohibits conquest. Some nations grow, while others decline. He would make it possible for expanding people to acquire lands unused or misused, not by war but by the assent of the league. While this policy might work against the self-determination of small nations in some cases, it would provide an alternative for forcible aggression that would go far to discourage militarism.

MUCH HISTORICAL DATA IS BEING GATHERED

County Historian Carl Dodds and his assistant have already gathered much important historical data on Mason county's part in the world war. All of this information is being listed and will be furnished the State Council of National Defense. Any one knowing of any important facts should communicate them at once to the Historian for listing.

GREAT EDUCATIONAL CAMPAIGN

Probably the greatest educational campaign ever undertaken by a church is that now being launched by the Centenary Movement of the Methodist Episcopal Church and the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, which together plan to raise $140,000,000 for Missionary work, at home and abroad. More than $14,000,000 will be spent on schools and teachers for the untalented children of the world, and instruction for grown people who have had little or no schooling in their youth. Of this sum a considerable amount will be spent on educational work in our own United States.

IF WOMEN ONLY KNEW

Hard to do housework with an aching back. Brings you hours of misery at leisure or at work.

If women only knew the cause—that

Backache pains often come from weak kidneys. "Would save much needless woe."

Doan's Kidney Pills are for weak kidneys.

Read what a Maysville citizen says: Mrs. R. W. Lauderback, W. Second Street, says: "Two years ago I was suffering with kidney trouble and had been for a long time. I was nervous and dizzy and had severe headaches. My kidneys were too frequent in action and annoyed me greatly. I had a dull ache across the small of my back and my back was so lame at times that I could hardly bend one way or the other. Some one advised me to use Doan's Kidney Pills and I got a box at Wood & Son's Drug Store. They helped me at once and continued use entirely cured me of the trouble."

Price 60c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Lauderback had. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfrs., Buffalo, N. Y.

CATTLEMEN OF BROWN COUNTY ORGANIZE

Meeting Held at Georgetown Results in Organization of Breeders Being Perfected.

The Georgetown (O.) News-Democrat says: Definite agreement was reached at the meeting held Saturday at the court house by those interested in improvement of pure bred live stock, that an organization should be made which will include all kinds of such stock. The meeting had been called for the purpose of making an organization looking to the advancement of Short Horn Cattle, the intention being to organize calf clubs throughout the cattle and generally promote the business.

The meeting had been called by those interested in the Short Horn Breeders' Association, which embraces Adams and Brown counties, and Mason and Lewis counties, Ky. Mr. William Holten and County Agent Van Houten had undertaken the work, and when the meeting was called to order there was probably seventy-five persons present, and it proved a most profitable session.

A committee of five well known stockmen were appointed to draft by-laws. This committee is composed of J. L. Frost, John McCafferty, W. W. Young, Wayne Cahall and Mr. Geesner. Mr. Holten was named temporary chairman and Edgar Quinlan temporary chairman.

Another meeting will be held Saturday, April 19th, at the same place and time, when this committee will report. Then, the intention will be to enlist every person engaged in pure bred live stock business in the county. Through this organization the parometers claim that stock will not only be improved, but a market for the sale of this will be created.

LITTLE JOURNEYS IN THE GARDEN

Many Americans do not eat enough greens and salad vegetables for their health.

One of the best things about the garden is that it offers work suited to each member of the family.

What is a back yard good for? It may be made to supply the average family with fresh vegetables through the growing season.

A weed is any plant in the wrong place. Vegetables too close together are as injurious to each other as weeds. Thin them out before they are large enough to crowd.

Out of the garden and over the fire. Sweet corn begins to deteriorate almost as soon as it is picked. No one knows its true flavor unless he has seen it come smoking but to the table within an hour after being pulled from the stalk.

Clay soil should not be plowed or spaded in spring nor cultivated after a rain until it ceases to be sticky. It is ready for working when a handful of it, after being squeezed tightly, crumbles readily instead of remaining in a solid mass.

Have your onions stuck up their periscopes? If onions are to be grown from seed, they should be planted early in the spring—the earlier the better. Seedling onions require the greatest care in soil preparation and culture, so the beginner in gardening will do well to stick to onion sets.

It is really surprising how much food in the form of green or salad crops can be grown in the spaces between the plants or rows of the larger or standard crops. For example, all the lettuce and radishes required by the average family may be grown between the plants of early tomatoes.

The supply of manure in cities is now quite limited, and it behooves the city gardener to secure enough somewhere to fertilize his garden plot, especially if his soil is heavy and lacking in organic matter. Where manure can not be obtained, a number of crops, such as Irish potatoes, beans, peas, and tomatoes, can be grown fairly well by the aid of commercial fertilizers. Street sweepings are un-

Water still runs downhill. Practice level culture for most vegetables. Do not make a raised bed on which to plant, nor hill up much earth along the rows in cultivating. Raised areas lose water, not only because it flows away, but also because they are exposed to the drying action of the air. Sweet potatoes, however, are usually planted on a low, broad ridge to insure a good bed of loose earth in which their roots may develop. Irish potatoes, too, are commonly hill up in cultivation, but the hilling should be very slight in regions and on soils where some drought is to be expected.

A garden that produces only one crop and idles away half of the growing season does only half of its duty.

EXCELLENT SUPPORT FOR MISS RHODES

An excellent cast supports Billie Rhodes in "Hoop-La," a comedy-drama of circus-life produced by National Film Corporation and released through Exhibitors Mutual.

Bertram Grassby, who plays opposite Miss Rhodes, is cast in the role of Tony Barrows, a blase society-man, scion of a wealthy family, but a good sport and a human sort with a well-developed sense of humor, who falls in love with a marries the charming circus-girl, "Hoop-La."

Mr. Grassby is an Englishman, having been born in Lincolnshire thirty-odd years ago. He is one of the handsomest men on the screen, but his looks never detract from the strength and manliness of his characterizations. He had an extensive stage career in repertoire and stock before coming to the films.

His initial screen appearance was with Selig, subsequently going to Universal and Fox. Photoplays in which he has scored successful inclusion "Langdon's Legacy," the "Terence O'Rourke" series, "Even as You are I," "American Methods," "The Scarlet Pimpernel," "The Woman Who Would Not Pay," and "The Soul of Satan." FEDERAL CROP REPORT FOR THIS STATE ENCOURAGING Crop Report for Kentucky Issued By Federal Field Agent Shows Grain In Fine Condition.

H. F. Bryant, Federal Department of Agriculture Agent for the State of Kentucky issues the following report on farm conditions for the past month:

The condition of wheat in Kentucky as a whole is most excellent, after a remarkably favorable fall, winter and spring. Rye passed the winter in good condition too, but as most of Kentucky's rye is grown on heavy clay soils that heavy rather badly the average condition of rye is slightly lower than wheat. Wheat now shows a condition of 103 per cent. compared to 100 per cent. at this time last year and a ten-year-average condition of 84 per cent. Rye is 100 per cent. now compared to nearly 91 per cent. this time last year and an average condition of 86 per cent. during the last ten years. Wheat and rye are in excellent condition in nearly all parts of the United States, wheat showing an average condition of almost 100 per cent. for the United States as a whole and rye nearly 91 per cent.

Farmers, traders and others throughout Kentucky now report that there are on the farms 2 per cent. more brood sows than at this time last year, which was a high year, while for the United States as a whole the number shows less than 1 per cent. over the high number of 1918.

Farm labor is only 85 per cent. normal in Kentucky now in total available supply, and less than 85 normal supply throughout the United States as a whole. On the other hand the demand for farm labor is 2 per cent. more than normal in Kentucky and nearly 2 per cent. more than normal in the entire United States.

Labor, including discharged soldiers, shows a great inclination to seek the cities and towns and even former farm workers usually seek city jobs in preference to going back to the farms.

KENTUCKY LEADS THE SOUTHLAND IN POULTRY

Bluegrass State Winning Quite a Reputation on Standardization of Poultry—Mason Was a Leader.

A prominent man from the United States Department of Agriculture (E. A. Miller) who is intimately acquainted with the condition of Southern Agriculture, recently stated that Kentucky is leading all the southern states in its poultry work. He attributes this to the campaign for Standardization of Poultry. This is generally recognized as the most constructive piece of Poultry Extension work ever attempted.

Every county in the state that is fortunate enough to have a county agent, is pushing the Standardization work this spring. It is even being successfully carried on in counties without agents.

Kentucky's first large baby-chick hatchery has recently been established and several others are contemplated in the near future. Several large milk-feeding plants are being put up in addition to those already in successful operation. Thus we find that poultry is coming to occupy the prominent place to which it is entitled in the state. The climate, soil, nearness to feed supply and markets are all favorable.

Those counties in which the Standardization work has been longest under way or is farthest developed, are beginning to reap the benefit. Several of them are planning to hold large sales of pullets this fall and are already assured of a good demand.

Several associations of poultry raisers have been recently organized in various parts of the state for furthering the interests of poultry. Dealers report a greatly increased business in eggs and live poultry during the past year. The demand has been strong and prices good.

All of which should be very encouraging to the farmer and backyard poultryman and should inspire him to make the most of his opportunity to better his flock by getting a start this spring in the standard breed for his country. See your County Agent.

EVERY SOLDIER IN COUNTY ASKED TO BE IN PARADE

Executive Committee of Mason County Soldiers Select Man From Each Precinct to See That All Soldiers Are in Line-Up.

Chairman Calvert Early has called a meeting of all of the members of his Executive committee to meet at the Chamber of Commerce this afternoon for the purpose of selecting a committee from each magisterial district in the county to be responsible for all of the soldiers in his district being present in Maysville to take part in the great celebration and parade to be given sometime during the first of May to boost the sale of Victory Bonds.

It is the purpose of this executive committee to so organize as to get out every Mason county soldier in this parade in their full uniform. The parade will not be confined entirely to Mason county men, it was learned today. All those who were in the service from nearby counties will also be asked to take part in the celebration.

This will be especially true of Huntington township in Brown county. The majority of the residents of Huntington township do business in Maysville. The majority of the mhave purchased their Liberty Bonds here and will do the same in the Fifth Loan. Mr. Ray Hamilton, recently returned from France, who has been named chairman of the Huntington township soldiers, was in Maysville today and in conference with Captain Early. He was given an invitation to have his men in the parade and assured Mr. Early that there would be a good delegation of the Aberdeen and neighborhood boys here to take part.

CONSTIPATION

And Sour Stomach Caused This Lady Much Suffering. Black-Draught Relieved.

Meadersville, Ky.—Mrs. Pearl Patrick, of this place, writes: "I was very constipated. I had sour stomach and was so uncomfortable. I went to the doctor. He gave me some pills. They weakened me and seemed to tear up my digestion. They would gripe me and afterwards it seemed I was more constipated than before. I heard of Black-Draught and decided to try it. I found it just what I needed. It was an easy laxative, and not bad to swallow. My digestion soon improved. I got well of the sour stomach, my bowels soon seemed normal, no more griping, and I would take a dose now and then, and was in good shape."

I cannot say too much for Black-Draught for it is the finest laxative one can use."

Theodore's Black-Draught has for many years been found of great value in the treatment of stomach, liver and bowel troubles. Easy to take, gentle and reliable in its action, leaving no bad aftereffects, it has won the praise of thousands of people who have used it.

CLUSTER LIGHTS WILL BE INSTALLED AT NEW DEPOT

C. & O. Railroad Assure Local People That Suitable Lights Will Be Installed at New Depot in Early Future.

Some time ago Chairman Ross Owens in charge of changing the name of and improving Lower street, now Kirk Place, requested the C. & O. railroad company that they install attractive cluster lights on the street and about the new depot.

Nothing was heard of the matter until today when Secretary Carl Dadds, of the Chamber of Commerce which organization was backing Mr. Owens in his request, received a letter from the officials of the railroad in which he was informed that the attractive cluster lights would be installed in the very near future or just as soon as the company could obtain from the manufacturers sufficient material to do the work.

This improvement will greatly help the appearance of the new station and will give that section of the city much more light which has been badly needed for quite a long while.

HALY STILL MUMB ON GUBERNATORIAL PUZZLE

General Percy Haly, of Frankfort and New York, was in Lexington Friday in conference with several friends and political supporters. He declined to say what his position would be in the race for the Democratic nomination for governor, or whether rumors that he and Senator Beckham would take opposite sides in the race had any foundation.
